科目の目的と概要	English language ability is important for nurses. English II-B 1 is a communication course in Nursing English. The course goal is to help students acquire English skills that will be useful in providing nursing care for future foreign patients. Each class will include a number of practical speaking, listening, reading and writing activities to help students interact together in English and improve their communication skills in Nursing English. In addition, students will learn and repeatedly practice English medical expressions and vocabulary to improve their ability to communicate with foreign patients and in future international medical settings. This is a learner-centered class, so students must participate actively in every class.
